ED205 Research Blog:
Guide for Students / Authors
http://ed205regis.wordpress.com/

Here is your chance to become an active participant in the blogosphere! Students can now submit comments and write posts at the ED205 Research Blog. Here is how:

Submit comments

Simply click the comments link that is found below the title of each post. Fill out the form and click the submit button. It's that easy!

Write posts

To write a new post, you need to set up an account with Wordpress.com. Once you have an account with Wordpress.com, we can add you as an author, but you need to tell us! After you have been added to the list of authors, you can log in to the ED205 Research Blog dashboard using your Wordpress.com username and password. As an author, you have the ability to write, edit, and delete your posts. (Authors do not have the ability to edit or delete posts from others, nor do they have permission to change the layout or presentation of the blog.)

Are you ready to share your thoughts with the rest of the ED205 community? Here is a checklist of steps to complete before you write your first post:

- ✓ Create a Wordpress.com account.

   Please use your Regis email address to set up your account. When we add you to the list of authors, we do so using your email address.

   Note: When creating your account, the default setting is to create a new blog (Gimme a Blog!). Instead, click on "Just a username, please"

- ✓ Notify us that you have set up an account at Wordpress.com

   Please notify us at pbetty@regis.edu so that we can manually add you to the list of authors. Once you have been added, an email notification will be sent to your Regis email account.

Links to the Wordpress.com account page and the ED205 Research Blog log-in screen can be found on the blog under the Authors menu on the right hand side.

ED205 Research Blog screencasts

Still confused? Take a look at the instructional screencasts for the ED205 Research Blog. Links can be found the blog's Tutorials page http://ed205regis.wordpress.com/tutorials/.

Use Policy

The ED205 Research blog is open to all students enrolled in the ED205 Adult Learning course at Regis University. The blog is an attempt to help extend library services to students, as well as provide a common place for ED205 students to interact and share opinions, observations and research related to their academic pursuits. Please refrain from the use of profanity, slander, or libel.

If you have a personal research question and do not wish to make it public on the blog, you may contact us via email. However, if we feel that it may benefit other students, we may ask for your permission to post reference and research questions received via email to the blog..

Tom Riedel
Distance Services Librarian
(303)-458-4261
800-388-2366, ext. 4261
triedel@regis.edu

Paul Betty
Distance Learning Librarian
(303)-964-5772
800-388-2366, ext. 5772
pbetty@regis.edu